

U.S. dope informer found shot to death

Woman motorist may be able to identify killers

Hancock County authorities said Wednesday they were "investigating possible motives" in their search for the killers of a 25-year-old ex-convict whose body was found on County Line Rd., near the Marion-Hancock line.

The victim, Charles (Smiley) Wilcox, 1300 Saddlebrook Court, was formerly a paid informer for the Federal Drug Enforcement Agency. His "execution" is believed to have been directly connected with his involvement in the illicit narcotics traffic.

The murder was reported by a passing woman motorist whose identity is being withheld "for her safety." The woman said she was driving in the 4300 block of North County Line Rd. East about 6:15 p.m. Monday when she passed a white late-model car containing several black occupants and that another man was standing in the road beside the vehicle.

The unidentified woman motorist said that as she went up the crest of a hill she heard what she thought was a shot, looked up and saw the man who had been standing outside the car slump to the ground as the white car sped north on County Line Road and then east on 46th Street toward Indianapolis.

Hancock County Prosecutor Dean Dobbins told The Recorder that "in light of Wilcox's past record, there are several possible motives for the slaying and we are working on several possible leads."

Dobbins said that investigators from his office have been able to trace Wilcox to the home of a friend in Indianapolis where he was last seen alive at about 5 p.m. His body was left sprawled on the road less than an hour-and-a-half later. Dobbins also refused to identify the friend.

Asked whether or not the woman who had witnessed the shooting would be able to identify the occupants of the white automobile she had seen stopped in the road, Dobbins said, "I'd rather not comment."

He also would not comment on whether or not the woman was able to identify the make of the death car, saying only that "she had eliminated several makes."

Dobbins said an autopsy performed at the Hancock Memorial Hospital at Greenfield revealed that Wilcox had been shot six times, once in the Jury fails to reach verdict in 1st trial

The so-called "Mr. Untouchable" of the local drug underworld—Curtis (Bates) Reed—remained just that this week after a Criminal Court jury failed to reach a verdict in his trial of kidnapping, conspiracy to commit murder and first-degree murder. A new trial date of October 14 was set by Judge John W. Tronberg on Wednesday of this week.

A Criminal Court, Division I, jury deliberated nearly 10 hours early last Saturday morning before reporting it could not reach a verdict in the case of Reed, who confessed three years ago to being a top lieutenant for Robert Tillman (Meathead) Jones, who, thanks to Reed's testimony, is presently serving a lengthy sentence in Federal Prison. Bates was ordered to be held in the Marion County Jail.

Final arguments in the case late last Friday were reminiscent of a television drama. Deputy Prosecutor Stephen A. Backer referred to Reed, 37, whose address was listed as 5102 Dickson Road, as the "Mr. Untouchable" of the narcotics underworld. Backer said John Jones Jr., the man Reed is charged with killing, testified against Reed before the Marion County Grand Jury, and because of this "he was chased down ANOTHER FIRST: Mrs. Louise K. Quarles Lawson has become the first black woman to head a savings and loan association. She was elected president and chief executive officer of Illinois Federal Savings and Loan Association at South Chicago last Thursday. Illinois Federal has assets of $43-million.

FIRST WITH THE FOURTH: General Daniel (Chappie) James Jr. (center), the new commander in chief of the North American Air Defense Command, receives his fourth star at ceremonies Friday (Aug. 29) at the Air Force's Peterson Field near Colorado Springs. Doing the pinning honors are General David C. Jones, Air Force chief of staff, and Mrs. James. Gen. James, who became chief of NORAD shortly after receiving the additional star, is the first black to achieve four-star rank in the U.S. armed forces. As commander of NORAD, the U.S. Canadian organization headquartered at Colorado Springs, he heads all the air and space attack-warning forces of both nations. (NORAD PHOTO)

'Chappie' James gets fourth star, now chief of North American Air Defense unit

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—General Daniel (Chappie) James Jr., become head of all the air and space attack warning forces for the United States and Canada when he took over as commander in chief of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) at military ceremonies here last Friday.

Gen. James, the first black officer to obtain four-star rank in U.S. military history, pinned on his fourth star last Thursday at Scott Air Force Base, Ill., where he served as vice commander of the Military Airlift Command.

General L. D. Clay Jr., who is retiring after more than 33 years' service, turned over the NORAD command to Gen. James at the ceremonies which were held in front of the headquarters of the 46th Aerospace Defense Wing at Peterson Field.

In his new position, Gen.

James also will head the Aerospace Defense Command, the U.S. element of the joint United States-Canadian NORAD. Both commands are headquartered in Colorado Springs.

NORAD has units stationed around the globe to provide warning of bomber or missile attack against North America. Representing the some 65,000 people of NORAD at the change of command ceremonies will be members of the U.S. Army, Navy and Air Force and the Canadian Armed Forces.

Gen. James, a veteran of 32 years' service and combat flying duty in two wars, will become the eighth commander in chief of NORAD since its establishment in 1957.

The 55-year-old officer is a native of Pensacola, Fla., and a 1942 graduate of Tuskegee Institute in Alabama. He started his military career in 1943, earning his commission in the Army Air Corps aviation cadet program.

Gen. James is married to the former Dorothy Watkins of Tuskegee, Ala. They have a daughter, Danice (Mrs. Frank W. Berry), and two sons, Daniel III, an Air Force officer, and Claude.

Parents seek to give up custody of kids to avoid desegregation

DURHAM, N.C. --

Some parents are offering to give up legal custody of their children rather than submit to a court-ordered pupil assignment plan to integrate Durham city schools, a juvenile court official said this week.

A custody switch to friends and relatives living in adjacent Durham County said Fred Elkins, the county court's chief counselor would make the children eligible to attend county schools.

City school enrollment last year was 73 per cent black and 27 per cent white, but concentrated in separate school districts that are overwhelmingly either black or white. The county school population is about 25 per cent black.

A federal court recently banned geographical assignment in the city system and ordered pupils to be assigned this fall in a way that would result in each school having a ratio of black and white pupils within 10 per cent of the city-wide racial balance.

Elkins said current request for a change in custody, as many as four a day, are up sharply over previous years. "Almost without fail, people

Heart recipient's prayers answered

By EUNICE McLAYEA

Ezell Sullivan hoped and prayed for months that he would get a heart donor so that his heart, which was afflicted with cardiomyopathy, a rare disease in which the heart muscles steadily degenerate, might be replaced with a healthy one.

Sullivan had been a victim of heart attacks since October of 1964—more than ten years. His last attack in April left him near death. While in Methodist Hospital, physicians determined that he would not live long without a transplant.

Through funds from sources Sullivan would rather keep anonymous, he was flown to University Hospital in Madison, Wisconsin to wait for his donor. "I was just hoping and praying I would get a donor," Sullivan remembered thinking during the three month wait.

It was on the day of July 2, 1975, that 18-year-old John Eric Steller, a young white boy, died from injuries sustained in an auto accident in Muscoda, Wisconsin and Sullivan's prayers were answered. The youth's parents gave their permission to have not only young Steller's heart donated, but his eyes and kidneys also, thus benefiting five needy recipients.

Dr. Donald Kahn, head of the surgical team which performed the operation, was notified of the donor and the surgery was performed.

That was only two short months ago. Greeted upon his return at Weir Cook Municipal Airport by his family and friends after being released from the hospital Tuesday, Sullivan said that he never felt better.

Sullivan is now at home with his wife, Ida and six children, Brenda 21; Leon, 19; Ezell Jr., 20; Trena Louise, 17; Danny 16; and Traci 9; at 43 West 35th St.

Sullivan, a retired worker of the Ford Motor Company, plans to do just what the doctors advised him to do take it easy and get plenty of rest. He will have to visit Dr. Paul Batties

Jr. of Indianapolis twice a week for an indefinite period of time for check-ups.

When asked what he plans to do after he has fully recuperated, Sullivan replied, "Well first, I'm going to take care of my heart because its just like a automobile pump, if it doesn't work nothing else will."

Haile Selassie's burial like same of the ordinary peasant

ADDIS ABABA—

A brief radio communique read over the state radio last week-end disclosed the former Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia was buried here the same day of his death. Again there was little indication that his burial attracted any particular attention of the public.

However, it was believed his body probably was laid to rest inside the grounds of the Menelik Palace. He had been confined to the palace since he was deposed by the Ethiopian military coup last September.

He apparently was buried as soon as possible to avoid the likelihood of a public gathering or outburst of support for Selassie or his fallen regime. Most people appeared to take the news

Black Lt. Governor says hospitality ended 'bitterness against Alabama'

(Special To The Recorder)

POINT CLEAR, Ala.—Thirty-two years ago a young aviation cadet in flight training at the Tuskegee Air Base crashed his plane and upon awakening from unconsciousness discovered he had been fettered in chains with the letter "K."

The lieutenant governor of Colorado, George L. Brown, always keep a little bitterness inside him following that 1943 incident, but he announced during the National Lieutenant Governors Conference here last week that the last bit of ill feeling have left him now.

Reason: The cordial greeting he received from Alabama upon arriving for the conference. Brown, in explaining a remark he had made earlier at the conference about "bitter memories" of Alabama, said that at the time of the accident he was seriously injured and was unconscious until taken to a hospital. He said that military rescuers had reported that he was in chains in a farmer's barn. He said when he awoke he discovered the "K" branded on his chest.

He said his rescuers quoted the farmer, who was not identified, as saying he didn't know black men were flying airplanes and he assumed it was stolen and consequently bound the injured pilot in chains.

He said he had learned to put down the hate that he felt because "I realize you can't hate a whole state, and as I began to raise a family, I realized I couldn't surround them with love if I felt hate myself."

But he said he was never able to rid himself of the bitterness until last week. He said the treatment he received from Lt. Gov. Jere Beasley, law enforcement officers on duty at the conference and "all the people I have met who are so hospitable" brought back pleasant memories of his earlier days in Alabama instead of bitterness.

Brown said he doesn't know just where the plane crashed, but that he remembers telling somebody it was near Talladega, which would be about 80 miles from Tuskegee. He said he never tried to find out who branded him.

"I was just glad it was over."

Birch Bayh to address confab on 'Alternatives to Prison'

For the first time in the history of the American prison system a national conference involving government officials, criminologists, ex-offenders, community and church representatives, prison personnel, authors and researchers in the field of penology, will be held to study various alternatives to the American penal system.

The First National Conference on "Alternatives to Incarceration", which will meet September 19 through 21 at the Sheraton - Boston Hotel in Boston, Massachusetts, is sponsored by the National Task Force on Higher Education and Criminal Justice, founded in 1973 by Harvey N. Alter who is responsible for organizing the conference.

Keynote speakers at the conference include Chief Justice Richard Hughes, of the New Jersey Supreme Court, Senator Birch Bayh (D-Ind.), a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee and chairman of its Subcommittee to Investigate Juvenile Delinquency, and Jessica Mitford, author of the best-selling 'Kind and Usual Punishment: The Prison System.'

The purpose of the conference is twofold: to provide a forum for examining alternative programs which now exist on national, state and local levels; and to provide training for people already in the field. Conference organizers also expect to provide as a result of the conference an index of alternative programs and to form local, state and regional organizations set up to develop them.

During the conference, critical issues pertaining to incarceration will be discussed. Major sessions will include: Alternatives to the Institutionalization of Juveniles, Strategies for Developing Alternatives, Alternative Programs for Women Offenders, New Developments in the Closing of the Massachusetts Juvenile Institutions, and the Role of the Judiciary in Creating Alternatives to Incarceration.

A special feature of the conference will be a program documenting the history of prisons in Cinema from 1930 to 1975, and will include screening of such feature films as WHITE HEAT, I WANT TO LIVE, RIOT, THE GLASS HOUSE, TITICUT FOLLIES, FORTUNE AND MEN'S EYES, LONELINESS OF THE LONG DISTANCE RUNNER, COOL HAND LUKE, WOMEN IN CAGES, and AT-TICA.

Conference workshops will examine such issues as: The Politics of Change, the Roles of Higher Education, the Legal Profession, and the Press in Creating Alternatives to Incarceration.

Ex-offenders will be participating in the Conference at all levels and, in addition to officials from all parts of the country representing the judiciary, correctional facilities and law enforcement agencies, distinguished guests who will attend include Governor Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts, Dr. Clair Randall, General Secretary of the National Council of Churches, Ramsey Clark, Arnold Hopkins, Associate Director of the American Bar Association, and David Rothenberg of the Fortune Society.

Organizations that have cooperated with Mr. Alter in organizing the Conference are the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, the United Nations, Phillips Brooks House (of Harvard University), the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges, and the University of Massachusetts.

Hudnut's 'anti-crime' plan endorsed by former county prosecutor John Tinder

City-County Councilman John G. Tinder has endorsed the Anti-Crime Plan of former Congressman Bill Hudnut and also criticized the "dart guns and rubber bullets" philosophy of Prosecutor James F. Kelley.

Tinder spoke at a meeting of all Republican City-County Council candidates in Hudnut-for-Mayor Headquarters, 1935 North Meridian Street.

A former Marion County prosecutor and chairman of the recent Tinder Committee, Tinder said he "most vigorously endorses the concept of putting more policemen on the street espoused by Bill Hudnut."

Black Rosedale (N.Y.) couple defends home against white attack, end up shot, arrested

ROSEDALE (QUEENS), N.Y. -- The misery of a black couple who moved into this all-white community continued last Wednesday night (August 27) when they were shot at the husband and a police officer struggled for a gun during a confrontation between neighbors and the couple.

According to police, an officer was attempting to disarm Ormistan Spencer who, along with his wife Glenda, were arguing with neighbors from their front lawn. Spencer had apparently pulled a gun when a crowd gathered near his home after he had tossed to the curb garbage that had been thrown on his yard.

Reports indicate Spencer wounded himself in the right forearm and wrist and the same bullet struck his wife in the right middle finger and right thigh as he grappled with an officer after refusing to put the gun away.

Spencer, a 35-year-old production manager for a photo-engraving company, was treated and released but his wife remained in Jamaica Hospital. The husband was charged with criminal possession of a loaded firearm and menacing.

The couple, who hail from Trinidad, have been the object of much racism since moving into the white middle-class neighborhood. The $40,000 red brick house had been fire-bombed in July, 1974, after they bought the house but three months before they and their three sons moved in.

No major incidents were reported in the neighborhood after the second bombing which occurred last New Year's Eve, although several black families reported trouble and a Jewish family reported a cross burned on their front lawn.

A hand-printed note was attached to the New Year's Eve bomb which read, "Nigger, be warned. We have time, we will get you."

Two men were arrested but were later acquitted last June by a Federal Court jury. One of the men was later arrested on a charge of obstructing justice by threatening a witness. The grand jury is presently considering indictment.

During Wednesday night's incident police said the Spencers

GLENDIA AND TONY SPENCER

reported some name-calling and harassment, and some fights, between their children and neighborhood whites who entered their yard.

Spencer was arraigned in Queens Criminal Court last Thursday and released on his own recognizance.

NASSP sponsoring scholarship program

"Bicentennial Seniors," a nationwide $250,000 scholarship program for high school seniors who will graduate with the Class of 1976, is being launched this month by the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

One national winner will receive $1000 grants under the program.

Winners will be selected first locally, then on a statewide level. Two graduating seniors will be chosen in each state and the District of Columbia. Each of the 102 winners will also receive an all-expense-paid trip to Williamsburg, Virginia from January 16 through 19 to attend seminars and hear noted speakers discuss educational and social issues facing this country today. The national winners will be selected during the Williamsburg conferences.

Students taking part in the "Bicentennial Seniors" competition must demonstrate an understanding of America's past and possible directions for the future and an involvement in the social and community issues faced by America today.

Competition will include the preparation of a minute-long television script to be patterned after the CBS television network's 200 years ago today "Bicentennial Minutes" a commentary discussing the significance of the "minute" for today and the lessons it contains for the future; and a current events examination emphasizing issues and events from the past year.

High school seniors should see their principal for details on how to participate in this scholarship program. Applications must be filed no later than October 6, 1975.

The program is administered by NASSP and is funded by the Shell Oil Company. "Bicentennial Seniors" is endorsed by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration.

Cancer death rates higher among blacks

The National Cancer Institute has released a report citing differences in survival rates from cancer between white and black patients.

The study included 219,493 white and 21,088 black patients whose cancers were diagnosed between 1955 and 1964 in selected hospitals in the United States.

The NCI scientists found that cancers of the digestive tract, reproductive organs, and bladder were diagnosed at a localized stage more often in the white patients than in the black patients.

Black-white differences with respect to extent of disease at diagnosis were less apparent for cancers of the pancreas, lung, kidney and brain, which are more difficult to detect at an early stage. Cancers diagnosed when localized to the site of origin often are treated more successfully than are more advanced cancers.

"Treatment and Survival Patterns for Black and White Cancer Patients Diagnosed 1955 through 1964" cites generally lower survival rates among black patients as compared to white patients in the study.

The editors of the report, Lillian M. Axtell, M.S., Max H. Myers, Ph.D., and Evelyn M. Shambaugh, B.A., of NCI's End Results Section, indicated that the 100 hospitals in the study represented a selection of cancer treatment facilities from general hospitals to university-based urban hospitals. Included in the study were all hospitals in Connecticut; hospitals which treat approximately one-third of cancer cases diagnosed in California; a group of hospitals in the Boston metropolitan area; and six large university hospitals in various parts of the U.S.

Results of the study suggest that whites use modern screening and diagnostic techniques more frequently than blacks.

This pattern may be due in part to socioeconomic, cultural, and perhaps other as-yet-unidentified factors, the scientists explained.

Survival rates generally were lower among the black patients even when their disease was diagnosed at a localized stage. This difference was greatest among patients with bladder cancer and among females with cancer of the body of the uterus. However, for cancers of the kidney, survival was more favorable among black patients than white patients.

Single copies of the report are available free of charge from the Office of Cancer Communications, National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Maryland 20014. Multiple copies can be ordered from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, for $75 each. Conference on substance abuse set Sept. 16

A conference on substance abuse will be held Tuesday, Sept. 16, in Cavanaugh Hall at IUPUI, 925 West Michigan. Registrations are scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m. The conference is sponsored by the Community Addiction Services Agency (CASA), the Indiana University School of Social Service and the Central Indiana Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers (NASW).

The workshop seminar is designed to assist service providers in social service, criminal justice and educational agencies to gain better understanding of the problems of substance abuse and how to provide services to abusers needing help.

Speakers for the conference will include Dr. O. LeRoy Salerni, associate professor of Medicinal Chemistry, College of Pharmacy, Butler University and William Griglak, acting assistant commissioner, division of Addiction Services, Indiana Department of Mental Health.

Persons desiring information concerning the program of registration materials should call CASA, 923-5421.

Bank robbery reward plan gets approval

Donald W. Tanselle, president of the Indianapolis Banks Clearing House Association has announced the association recently approved the formation of a bank robbery reward plan. The banks which are members of the association are: American Fletcher National Bank and Trust Company, First Bank & Trust Company, The Indiana National Bank, Merchants National Bank & Trust Company, Midwest National Bank, and Peoples Bank & Trust Company.

When one of these banks is robbed the bank will offer a reward of up to $2,000 per robbery. The funds will be deposited in the bank for this purpose. The victim bank may increase the reward amount if the bank feels the loss is substantial. However, the amount of the reward to be paid in each case will be dependent upon the value of the information furnished which is not already known. Reward payment will be dependent upon arrest and indictment.

The purpose of the plan is to develop a greater public awareness and interest in the furnishing of information leading to the arrest and conviction of individual(s) robbing banks. Tanselle stated, "All the presidents of member banks are very concerned for the well being of their staff and customers since the number of robberies that have occurred in the past 12 months have increased significantly. By offering rewards for information, it is the associations' hope the public will be more attentive to suspicious activities while visiting or driving by banks."

Citizens who have information concerning any Marion County robberies that have occurred during 1975 are urged to contact the local FBI office, the Indianapolis Police Department or the Marion County Sheriff's Office.

Urban League schedules 2nd 'Back to School' campaign

Because of this critical period the Indianapolis Urban League is conducting its second annual "Back to School" campaign. The Urban League is making a special effort to encourage people to get a good basic education. The League is especially concerned over the dropout rate among blacks and other minorities in the Indianapolis Public School System and surrounding Marion County districts.

The most recent available statistics from the Indiana Department of Public Instruction for the 1973-74 school year show the dropout rate for Marion County schools for students in grades seven (7) through twelve (12) to be 6.67 percent for the dropouts and 9.11 percent.

The Urban League research also concluded that inner-city students dropout of school about one and one-third times as fast as suburban students. This observation again only proves the inequalities in our system of schools.

Marion County students (grades 7-12) numbered 77,972 for 1973-74. The boys and girls dropout rate was 7.5 and 5.82 percent respectively, with an overall average of 6.67 percent. The Indianapolis public school had 40,231 students enrolled (grades 7-12) for the same period. 10.6 percent of the male students dropped out of IPS while females dropped out at 8.13 percent. Overall this accounted for a dropout rate of 9.11 percent.

Nearly 38 percent of the 4400 students who dropped out of IPS last year were black. In other words, a highly disproportionate number of school dropouts were black and certainly in the most need of a sound education.

Sam H. Jones, executive director of the Urban League, stated, "We are concerned with all aspects of the educational system and with the opening of the school year, we are focusing our attention on encouraging students who might otherwise not return to school on the necessity of diplomas and degrees in our automated society."

"Therefore, throughout the month of September the League's Education Staff will be making a special thrust aimed at the potential school dropout," said Jones.

A free electronics theory and radio code class will be held this fall by the Indianapolis Red Cross Amateur Radio Club. The course will prepare students to take the Federal Communications Commission Examination for the Novice Class Amateur Operators License. Classes will be for a 12-week period beginning Monday, September 8, through December 1, 7 to 9:45 p.m., at the Red Cross Chapter House, 441 E. Tenth Street. Interested persons should be 12 years of age or older.

Tribute to membership planned at Citizen's Forum garden party

The 11th Anniversary Recognition of Citizens' Forum, Inc., and the Indianapolis Bicentennial Celebration Forecast will be observed with a garden party Sunday, Sept. 7th at 3 p.m. at 4421 North Illinois.

Officials of the Forum, block club, presidents, PTA council presidents, Helping Hand chairpersons and members of the operational staff note that the party has been planned especially to recognize members of the organization, patrons and wellwishers. The garden party will afford fellowship and refreshments.

Average salaries for white-collar occupations in the private sector climbed 9.0 percent during the year ended March 1975, the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported.

Mayoral candidate Welch calls for new police department leader

Democratic mayoral candidate Robert V. Welch told the presidents of the United Auto Workers union locals of Indianapolis that a top priority of his administration will be to "...find a leader for the police department who can take the 1,000 men and women officers there and give us the security we want in our homes, our streets and our neighborhoods."

Welch addressed the UAW officials just days after the union's Community Action Program, (C.A.P.) the political arm of the United Auto Workers, had given him an overwhelming endorsement. The UAW locals in Indianapolis include some 28,000 members.

Regarding the police department, Welch said that selecting a leader who can be effective will be "a big order." He continued, "But I like big orders. You men like big orders. I need your help now and it won't stop after election day. I need your help to accomplish what we've promised the people we will achieve. We can't let the people down and we won't."

He concluded, "This community is made up of people who want to see this city become a great city. The people think it is time for a change, but they don't want a change from Nixon's favorite Mayor to Nixon's favorite Congressman."

Three affirmative action programs -- federal contract compliance, handicapped workers' task group, and veterans' task group -- within the Labor Department's Employment Standards Administration are being merged to improve operating efficiency.

Pageant set Saturday—

'Steel City' rolls out welcome mat for Miss Black America contestants

By PAT STEWART
(Special to The Recorder)

GARY—The Steel City is literally "outdoing" itself with banners streaming atop and around the Capitol Building and others atop businesses in downtown Gary in officially welcoming the 1975 "Miss Black America Pageant."

The production, which always includes lots of music and other entertainment, will come off Saturday, Sept. 6, at 8 p.m., at the plush Westside Auditorium which will be array with gorgeous decorations and ornaments.

Richard G. Hatcher, mayor, and a committee of Gary's most concerned citizens, started entertaining the 29 lovely contestants and staff when they started arriving last Thursday.

This select Host Committee Inc., is the official service and hospitality group and is leading the city in serving as a support base for the annual extravaganza. The young ladies have toured Gary and have been guests of honor at many activities all this week.

In addition, they have been rehearsing and re-rehearsing under the able direction of talented Emmett Cash, who demands precision and perfection. He is teaching them to walk, speak, and model graciously as they will Friday night down the runway during the preliminaries. The young ladies will model both bathing suits and gowns and will display a variety of interesting talents.

Chaperons, provided by the Committee, have made the ladies feel at home. Mayor Hatcher is ecstatic in having the pageant in his city, and rumors are Gary could well become the national pageant's home.

Among those vying for the "Miss Black America" title, a coveted honor and distinction and the only one of its kind for young black women in the country, is Miss Yvonne Froman, 21, "Miss Black America" of Indiana. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Froman, she resides at 112 Blue Ridge Rd.

A public and environmental affairs student at IUPUI, "Miss Black America" of Indiana is planning to enter law school in the future.

She will have some tough competition with equally pretty and talented young ladies from California, Colorado, D.C., Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New York, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and West Virginia. Local pageants were also held in Alabama, Arizona, and Arkansas.

An interracial panel of judges will have a difficult decision to make Friday night in the preliminaries and again Saturday night in selecting "Miss Black America" of 1975. Mystery always prevails when the judges announce the three finalists, and this year will be no exception.

Beauteous Von Gretchen Shepard of Los Angeles will reluctantly give up her crown to the new winner. She has certainly been a credit to the pageant as she travelled throughout the United States and abroad with dignity as "Miss Black America."

Headquarters for the pageant is the Holiday Inn, which was a courteous host all this week. The pageant will be taped and shown on television in Indianapolis in the near future.

CCC No. 539 held 41st annual reunion

The Civilian Conservation Corps No. 539 held its 41st annual reunion August 30, at the Masonic Hall, 653 North West. The camp originated with the purpose of providing jobs for men who were not in the service. Men enlisted for six month periods. Their jobs were to beautify and practically rebuild lands into parks. One of their completed tasks is Springmill State Park.

At the reunion, old friends came together to talk about the good old days and eat an array of goodies.

Here's a new wrinkle on how to look great when you get where you're going: Unpack the clothes you expect to wear first and hang them on the shower curtain rod over the bathtub. Then turn on the hot water and let the steam rise. Wrinkles will fall out after a half hour and natural fabrics will dry quickly and smoothly.

Wallace family holds reunion

The Manuel and Fannie Wallace Family, 2705 N. Graham, held their 2nd annual family reunion last week at Mount Mounds Park, Madison, Illinois.

There were at least 99 relatives in attendance and many guests of the family also were present to enjoy the festivities.

The eldest member of the family attending the reunion was Mrs. Mary Dixon, the youngest was little Jeramie Wallace.

Members of the family enjoyed eating an array of goodies, re-acquainting themselves with other relatives dancing and playing ball. They motored

Back to school? To some this is a joy, but to others, it's a headache. Which ever it is to you, why not try your hardest to get the most out of your education. Little do you know that some day you'll be glad you did. Why be a drop out, when you can stay in school and finish the job with a little emphasis on the thinking and doing power?

A new stop and go sign has been installed at the intersection of Raymond and Perkins with a walk and wait sign for the benefit of the school.

There should be no problem getting to the other side of the street safely if you obey the lights.

Residents of the Raymond-Perkins area -- lets get a hold on ourselves. Your neighbors and community are complaining about the unsightly debris around your grounds and the belligerent attitude some of you have about cleaning it up. You are the residents and it would seem you would want to keep your buildings and grounds clean. If there are not enough maintenance men to do the job of repairing vandalism you create, do it yourself or offer to help. You live there. Does one have to be paid to keep up his own environment? Look around you at the way others keep their homes. The property you save may help you and your children to become better citizens.

Some graduates of '75 have chosen to be a part of the college scene. Many have remained in Indianapolis and are attending Marion, Indiana Central and I.U.P.U.I. Colleges where the enrollment is over 20,000. Those attending out of town colleges are Joyce Clark and Marvin Tyler.

Joyce attended Wood High School where she was an honor student. She went to Bowie College, Bowie, Maryland.

Marvin also attended Wood. He is going to a college in Rock Springs, Arkansas.

To all who are striving for higher education -- "Aim high and reach your goals."

Miss VaRita Yvonne Crowe vying for Indy Senate title

Miss VaRita Yvonne Crowe, a 1975 graduate of Cardinal Ritter High School, presently working as a clerk - typist in the probation department of the Municipal Court system, is busy these days raising monies for her college education.

The daughter of Lindsey L. and Ruth A. Crowe of Indianapolis, the recent high school graduate wants to attend Brooks College in Long Beach, Calif., next year to major in merchandising and fashion design, and minor in modeling.

In order to realize this "dream," Miss Crowe is taking part in several fund raising projects, among them the selling of votes for the Indy Bowling Senate King and Queen Contest, selling tickets to the crowning dance, and selling popcorn.

Vote tickets may be purchased up until the date of the crowning affair, scheduled for October 11 at the IBEW Hall, 6501 Massachusetts.

Miss Crowe wants the title of Indy Senate queen in order to participate in the National Bowling Association Queen and

VARITA YVONNE CROWE

King Contest to be held in Atlanta in May of '76.

Indianapolis has never had a local queen to win the national title and Miss Crowe wants to be the first. She, as well as any other members of her family, may be contacted at 631-5326.

Chatting with the F.A.C.

BY BESSIE JAMES

As the month of August ended the travel season was at its highest peak. Many of the F.A.C. members went to various parks of the country and the world for conventions, reunions, and educational tours. Now we will settle down to work.

The regular F.A.C. meeting will be the second Monday, Sept. 8, at 8 p.m. Many echoes from vacations will be heard. Those in attendance whose birthday falls in Sept. will be honored. Always mark the 2nd Monday of each month as the regular meeting night of the organization. Come out and see and hear what plans are in the making. The Tagade Club, with Mr. Miller as president, is scheduled to render the monthly program.

The Mayor Luger's Garden project has really paid off for many who participated. Some are canning and freezing vegetables from their gardens. Tomatoes are showing off. Other vegetables are plentiful. We are proud of our efforts.

Mrs. Guy Eula Jennings, an active member of the Health and Welfare Committee, has done it again. She won 2nd and 3rd place in baked cookies at the State Fair. A lovely trophy was awarded her. We salute Mrs. Jennings.

Mrs. Mildred Orrid of New York is visiting in the city. She taught here for a number of years before retiring and moving to New York. She was the house guest of Mrs. Mattie Coney of The Citizens Forum.

Happy Birthday to the following attendance members:

Tie breaker decides Miss Black Teenage World Pageant title

DANVILLE, Va. The Raleigh, North Carolina Memorial Auditorium was the setting for one of the most exciting and dramatic finishes in the history of the Miss Black Teenage World Pageant when the M.C., Lawrence Garnelle Stamps, announced that there was a tie in the points between MBTW of South Carolina and MBTW of Virginia and that a tie breaking question would be required to decide the winner of the Pageant. Both young ladies would be asked the same question after drawing a number to see which would answer first. Miss Tannese Payne, representing South Carolina, was escorted out of the auditorium while the other contestant answered the question. "Kindness is..." After the judges scores were compiled, Miss Jordan was announced Miss Black Teenage World 1975 and Miss Payne First Runner - Up.

Miss Jordan resides in Columbia, South Carolina, attends the C.A. Johnson High School where she is a member of the National Honor Society; the Honors Chorus; and the Student Council. Miss Jordan's talent presentation was the popular "One Fine Day" from Act II of Madame Butterfly. She is the daughter of Mr. James and Mrs. Ruth Jordan of Columbia,

MISS TENITA JORDAN
... Miss Black Teenage World '75

South Carolina. Among her prizes is a Scholarship to Hampton Institute. Each of the finalists received College Scholarships in the total amount of $60,000. Miss Jordan was also the winner of the Outstanding Creative Expression Award.

Miss Payne, the First Runner - Up, is from New River, Virginia who performed an original monologue entitled, "The Evolution of the Black Woman in America."

Other winners included: Second Runner - Up, Angelo Garrett, MBTW of California; Miss Robin Pulliam, Third Runner-Up, MBTW of New Jersey; Fourth Runner - Up, Miss Crystal Hodges, MBTW of District of Columbia; Fifth Runner-Up, Miss Yolanda Stevenson, MBTW of Arizona. Miss Bridgette Bethel, MBTW of Nassau Bahamas was selected Miss Teenager. Miss Yolanda Stevenson, MBTW of Arizona won the Miss Talent Award with her portrayal of "Miss Jane Pittman."

The Pageant was produced by Pageants Unlimited, Inc., with the contestants being hosted by Saint Augustine's College, Eastman Kodak, Johnson's Products, Flori Roberts and Pageants Unlimited presented prizes to all of the finalists.

International Mela to be held Sept. 28

Pirokes, macrame, fortune telling, children's games and an auction -- all are part of the International Mela to be held beginning at 11:00 a.m., Sunday, Sept. 28, on the grounds of the International Center of Indianapolis, 1050 West 42nd. There is no admission charge.

Pirokes, a meat - filled pastry from Latvia, are just one of the taste - tempting ethnic foods to be offered for sale during the festival. There will also be Chinese egg rolls, bibingkas (a Filipino dish), Mexican tacos, Greek baklava, and many more for consuming or taking home.

Nationality groups and clubs from throughout the Indianapolis area are planning displays and booths to tell of their native lands and offer handicrafts for sale.

Indianapolis area artists will exhibit and sell wares. Fortune tellers, folk dancers, clowns and ethnic musicians will entertain all afternoon. A flea market also is planned.

A fund - raising auction, set to begin at 1 p.m., will offer a variety of items from African spears to zoo tickets and services including lessons in Japanese and college tuition. Highlights will be appearances by Indianapolis mayoral candidates Bob Welch (Democrat) and Bill Hudnut (Republican), who will auction the ties they're wearing to the highest bidder. Dave Taylor and Duff Robbins are volunteering their time as professional auctioneers.

Phiroze Bandukwalla is Mela Chariman. Committee chairmen working with him are: Ziporah Rosenberg, auction solicitations; Maria Lagodon, ethnic foods; Hans Lill, physical arrangements; Cassius Fenton, finance and security; Susan McKee, public relations; Trudy Brigandi, flea market; Earnest Freeman, artists' booths; Shaz Bandukwalla, ethnic booths; Mara Caune, entertainment; Vivian Ely, children's parade.

The International Center is a non-profit, tax-exempt corporation which seeks to promote communication and understanding across ethnic and racial lines, serving both foreign - born and native - born Americans.

To donate goods or services to the auction or inquire about booth space, contact Frances Bleakley at the International Center (923-1468).

Mela is a Hindu word meaning "a place of happening; a gathering of peoples; unusual sights, sounds and fun."

DERICK W. TARRANTS of Norfolk, Va., son of SM3 Petty Officer Eric W. Tarrants and Lillie Jo Tarrants, celebrated his first birthday August 6, while he and his mother were visiting Derick's grandmother, Mrs. Thelma J. Murphy, of Indianapolis. A kiddie party at Farrell's Ice Cream Parlor at Castleton Square with birthday cake and ice cream cone and sundaes was enjoyed by all. Guests were his aunt, Mrs. Donna Lee, and cousins Robyne and Rhonda Lee, Mrs. Jean O. Lewis of this city, and grandsons visiting her, Marcus and James L. Lewis from Knoxville, Tenn. Many lovely gifts were received from well wishers. Young Derick was born on the same day as his dad, who was in Spain at the time but who has since rejoined his family in Norfolk.

IT COULD NEVER HAPPEN TO ME!

Dear Louise, I never thought that this would ever happen to me but it did. My husband wants to separate for a while to get himself together. He said I haven't done anything wrong, but he doesn't feel that he loves me the way that a man should love his wife! Can you believe that?

We've only been married for two years and I truly love him. We both have good jobs and we're trying to be good Christians. I thought we had just about everything a young couple could want. I had at times noticed a change in him, but no way did I think something like this would take place. I'm really confused and hurt. To make matters worse I think that I'm pregnant. This would be our first child. What can I do? Should I try and make him stay? What about the baby? One-Way Love, Indianapolis.

Dear One-Way Love, How often had we thought that, that will never happen to me? Often I'm sure. What you are experiencing now is a very hurting thing, but try and realize how hurt you'd be if he told you this 10 years from now with three or four children to see after!

People get married for many different reasons: convenience, security, money, pity, sexual attractions and, of course, love (the last two reasons often get confused). "Keep that in mind." You can't make a person love you, so trying to make him stay isn't advisable. You ended your letter with "One Way Love." Believe me, it is no fun going down that one-way street of love all by yourself.

You indicated that both of you were Christians, so I'm sure that you've prayed over the problem and if you put the matter in God's hands--leave it there! Read Isaiah 41:10; it will HELP.

So, be strong, hold your head high and good luck!

Please send letters to: LOUISE, 2901 N. TACOMA, INDIANAPOLIS, INDIANA, 46218.

Father, son to worship together in special communion service

Father and son will come together for worship for the first time in 10 years Sunday when Rev. Dr. J. Solomon Benn Jr., come to Indianapolis for communion-fellowship at his son's church, Bethel A.M.E. Cathedral, 414 W. Vermont.
Dr. Benn Jr., who was an Indianapolis minister before moving to Philadelphia, will preach from the subject, "Having Obtained Help From God." A dinner, to which the public is invited, will follow.
The visit of the senior Benn will be the first at Bethel Cathedral since Pastor J. Solomon Benn III took over the pastorate. Under Pastor Benn's leadership, Bethel completely renovated its present structure resulting in one of the finest churches in the city.
The senior Benn is now retired. He has served as pastor of Bethel A.M.E. Church, Philadelphia, and as the Presiding Elder of the A.M.E. Church in Philadelphia.

A-In Memoriam

MRS. MADELINE MCCULLEY GOSS
GOSS-In memory of our dearly beloved wife, mother, grandmother, sister, aunt and friend, MRS. MADELINE MCCULLEY GOSS
We offer up a prayer of thanks to our almighty God on the fourth anniversary of her passing:
Dear God, today we give thanks for having been a great part of the life you gave her for nearly seventy years. We thank Thee that you gave her the strength to love us all collectively but individually as the need arose. We thank Thee that as a young person she discovered and accepted her need for you, because without you she could not have been the kind, loving and devoted person she was. Even though we miss her greatly, we thank Thee most of all that Thou hast prepared an eternal home for her, because we know by the life she lived, You, on the day of resurrection will consider her worthy to live in Your kingdom.

Church Events

BY WILLA THOMAS

The thought for the week, something for you to think about, is this: "God Our Refuge."
"Whenever you cometo the Lord with an Earnest Prayer, He is there. When you come with a contrite heart or human fears, He will hear. Though you may have little to give, bring Him your best; He supplies the rest."
There are many people who stay away from church for one reason or another and one of the common known reason is that they do not have money to put in the church. One should never stay home because they do not have the money to put in the church. God knows your heart and he will bless you for going. I have gone to church many times without money, yet I go on because the House belongs to God and He knows and His blessings will be yours at all times.

Sunday, Sept. 7th, is Promotion Day for the First Baptist Sunday School. Sunday school will start at 9 am and the children are urged to be on time. Parents are urged to attend the Promotion Day program. Some 200 boys and girls will be promoted.

For fresh vegetables for your table this week-end stop by the Farmers Market Friday and Saturday at the Barnes United Methodist Church. All day you can shop.

Continue to collect your old eyeglasses and save the stamps from your mail each day. They will help someone to see better and to have food on their tables. Mail stamps to me, or leave both at the First Baptist Church, North Indianapolis.

Your old Christmas cards are needed also. No envelopes please.

The Ladies Progressive Club will present the Angelical Travelers and the Brownie Herron Singers in a concert Sunday, Sept. 7th at 3:30 pm at Bethel A.M.E. Cathedral, 414 W. Vermont.

Every Baptist in the city of Indianapolis is asked to mark their date book with the following dates: Oct. 6 - 10, 1975 for the 18th Annual Central district Roundup to be held at the New Bethel Baptist Church. Guest speaker will be Dr. P. S. Wilkerson, of San Antonio, Tex. More about this later.

Elder Joseph D. Farris of Indianapolis is being installed this week as the new minister of the Zion Tabernacle Church, 3302 N. Arsenal. The installation will close Sat., Sept. 6th with the Bishop George Boone, Detroit, Michigan, as guest speaker. God bless you, Rev. Farris in your new charge.

Pacers to open pre-season camp September 21 at Rose-Hulman U.

It doesn't seem possible, but the Indiana Pacers will be opening their 1975 pre-season camp September 21.

The Pacers' veterans, rookies and free agent hopefuls will report to Coach Bob Leonard and his assistant, Jerry Oliver. For the first time, this year's camp will be held at Rose-Hulman University in Terre Haute, Indiana, instead of Indiana Central University as in previous seasons.

AYR-WAY, WNAP SPECIAL

You'll be seeing the familiar pink, black and white colors of the Ayr-Way/WNAP racing again at the Hoosier-Hundred dirt track races on September 6, at the Indiana State Fair Grounds. "We're back on the track at Indy" announced David H. Kenny, president of Ayr-Way Stores, Inc.

Owned by Tassi Vatis, the sleek racer was designed and built in Indianapolis, Indiana by Bill Finley. The car will carry the same No. 93 as did the Ayr-Way/WNAP Indy-500 car.

Earlier this summer, Leonard signed a new contract as coach and director of Player Personnel for the Pacers for five more years. He went over to Rose-Hulman to investigate the feasibility of having camp there, and returned very pleased with the possibilities.

"The facilities over at Rose-Hulman are excellent and they are currently involved with a million dollar project to add more courts and locker rooms. Really, most pro teams do move out of town for their pre-season camp, and I think the move this year will help the Pacers prepare for the start of the season. There shouldn't be as many distractions over there and Jerry and I will have more time to work with them."

"We have a tough pre-season schedule which will be a good experience for our club and at the same time will give our fans the chance to see some of the best teams and players in the NBA."

At this time, the Pacers have four pre-season games against top NBA teams with all four being played in the Market Square Arena:

Oct. 4 (Sat.) Buffalo Braves 8:05 p.m.
Oct. 11 (Sat.) Milwaukee Bucks 8:05 p.m.
Oct. 15 (Wed.) New York Knicks 8:05 p.m.
Oct. 19 (Sun.) Philadelphia 76'ers 7:05 p.m.

Tickets for the four games are $7, $8, $5 and $3.00 and will go on sale shortly after Labor Day, Pacers' Season Ticket Holders will have first priority to their seats.

Norfolk State faces Grambling in 'classic'

NEW YORK -- "Let's put it all together, girl, love is all there is." These are lyrics from a song popularized by The Stylistics. They are also the words that inspired the Spartans football team of Norfolk State College to the championship of the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association (C.I.A.A.).

Norfolk State will be hoping to "put it all together" when they meet Grambling State University in the 5th Annual Whitney M. Young, Jr. Memorial Football Classic in New York's Shea Stadium on Saturday, November 15th.

Abdul-Jabbar, Walton encounter leaves latter hospitalized

KAREEM ABDUL JABBAR

BILL WALTON

HONOLULU -- Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Bill Walton went at it head on during a rough professional basketball benefit exhibition game last week and Walton ended up in a hospital.

Walton, the center for the Portland Trail Blazers of the National Basketball Association, was smashed on the right side of his face by an elbow and was given X-rays at a local hospital. Doctors reported he was not seriously injured and he was released from the hospital.

What led up to the incident was the close guarding of Abdul-Jabbar during the East-West tilt in which unlimited fouls were permitted. Walton had fouled the Los Angeles Laker center six times and upon committing No. 7, the 7-2 superstar started swinging elbows furiously and one of them caught Walton at 3:33 in the first half.

The 6-11 Walton left the game at halftime for the X-rays at Queen's Medical Center. Despite losing the services of Walton, the East team crushed Jabbar's West club, 137-110.

"I really didn't come here to fight him," Jabbar said following the game. "I don't know what he had on his mind. This was definitely not the place for playing that kind of basketball. I didn't think we would get into any serious physical kind of game here."

Walton would not comment after his release from the hospital.

Julius Erving, the only player from the American Basketball Association on either team, led the East with 33 points.

ABA moves Memphis team to Baltimore

BALTIMORE -- The American Basketball Association has a new team. The organization announced late last week that the bankrupt Memphis Sounds franchise would become the Baltimore Hustlers.

Dave DeBusschere, ABA Commissioner, made the announcement during a news conference here with local civic leaders and owners of the new team. He said plans were being made for an equalization draft to stock the new team and that some of the Sounds players would probably come to Baltimore.

The Baltimore club will play just down Baltimore Street from "The Block," the city's honky-tonk district.

Kentucky State's Mitchell says NCAA has vendetta against him

FRANKFORT, Ky. -- Lucas Mitchell says he did not take money acting as an agent for Elmore Smith and Travis Grant, thereby violating NCAA rules.

"It was a gift," said the Kentucky State University basketball coach. Mitchell says the NCAA has a vendetta against him.

"It's simple to see they're trying to run me out of coaching," he stated.

In his first answer-all-questions interview with the Courier Journal of Louisville, since being suspended for one year by Kentucky State, Mitchell had plenty to say.

"I was told to keep quiet until the thing had been settled," said Mitchell. "I've never been a crook and I've never done anything illegal. Suppose I did it. There are other schools that have 100 violations and they don't put them on indefinite probation in every sport."

"It's ridiculous. When they came investigating, they told Elmore they were going to have me fired. The man that came investigating was named Burch or something. I wanted him around to face me when we had meetings about this thing. But the NCAA never had him there."

"I did nothing illegal, and I'd swear to it on a stack of Bibles. It's a matter of Elmore getting mixed up with a big-time agent and then filing suit. But the NCAA is just looking for anything to run me out of this profession."

"We're in the NAIA (National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics), too, and I always go to the NAIA tournaments. We get a lot of publicity that would help the NCAA Division II, but we never go. They don't like it either, and that's just another reason they're after me."

Would Kentucky State drop out of the NCAA to avoid the penalty?

"I've always been in favor of dropping out of the NCAA. We don't have the money to compete with those schools, although we've had teams here that could beat most of them. But it's not my decision to make."

Will your program be destroyed if you can't give scholarships (That's part of the penalty too)?

"Sure, anybody's program would be destroyed. But we can't

Tribe hurlers dominate AA pitchers

Final unofficial statistics indicate that three Indianapolis Indians pitchers dominated the American Association in earned run averages. The figures show that Pat Zachry led the league with a glittering 2.46 ERA, closely followed by Santo Alcalá with a 2.75 mark, and Larry Payne in a close run with George Throop of Omaha for a possible third place in the final ERA standings.

Zachry finished second to Paul Siebert of Iowa in the number of shutout performances with 4 calcimine efforts.

Other outstanding mound jobs were turned in by submariner Foyce Taylor with an 8-1 record and 2.22 ERA and Joe Henderson with a 2.41 ERA, but both Tribesmen lacked the necessary number of innings pitched to qualify.

Lefthander Mac Scarce led the league in number of game appearances with 59 trips to the mound, only two of which take on the NCAA. They put a school with 100 violations on probation for one year, but they put a black coach and a small black school on indefinite probation for nothing. It doesn't make sense."

The NCAA says Mitchell's case is a first. Only one is comparable, says the NCAA, and that involves Centenary. The Louisiana school gave aid to a high school player, Robert Parrish, who was not academically eligible for it under the rules three years ago. The

'Trade a steal for Bullets,' says Bing

DAVE BING

KEVIN PORTER

LANDOVER, Md. ---

The Detroit Pistons traded All-Star guard Dave Bing to the Washington Bullets for Kevin Porter last Thursday and Bing says the swap "is a real steal for Washington."

Bing, who at 31 is six years older than Porter, made that observation during a news conference here in which the trade was announced. In addition to Porter, Detroit will get the Bullets' top draft choice in 1977.

"I think Phil Chenier and I will be the best backcourt in basketball," said Bing. "Every individual goal is behind me. I want to win the championship."

But it is clear to see that Detroit did equally well in gaining Porter, who led the National Basketball Association in assists last season and had 152 steals, 36 more than Bing.

However, Bing says the fast-break style of the Bullets would enable him to return to a quicker style of play. K.C. Jones, the Bullets coach, said Bing's acquisition would give the team more outside shooting, a more dependable defense and increased rebounding.

"Detroit got the best passer and penetrator in the game today," said the 25-year-old Porter during a news conference in Detroit.

Benjamin L. Hooks FCC COMMISSIONER

At long last, the Federal Communications Commission has instituted an inquiry and rulemaking proceeding (as prescribed by Communications law) preparatory to issuing firm equal employment opportunity guidelines to all of its broadcast licensees.

Comments on its proposals and policy clarifications are being requested from the general public by September 11, with replies set for October 1. I would urge all interested public interest, Black, Latino and women's groups to participate.

For my part, I am happy to see the Commission issue this Notice of Inquiry and Proposed Rulemaking regarding non-discrimination in the employment practices of broadcast licensees and setting forth its view that EEO is an important aspect of the Commission regulatory function.

In a 10-page concurring statement that was attached to the Notice, I commended the Commission for taking this action.

This has been a long time in the making. When I came aboard the Commission, July 1972, EEO had been a Commission policy for three years. On June 4, 1969, the Commission adopted rules forbidding discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion or national origin and requiring that equal opportunities in employment be afforded by all licensees or permittees to all qualified persons.

The FCC was the first and I believe is still the only one of the so-called "Big Eight" (ICC, FTC, FPC, SEC, CAB, etc) federal regulatory commissions to adopt the rules.

I was quickly named EEO Commissioner and we set about establishing an in-house EEO unit and an external EEO unit, the latter to deal with the industries we regulate.

It never dawned on me that it would take nearly three years before the Commission would agree on a set of EEO guidelines on non-discrimination. I disagree with the term the Commission insisted on keeping - "qualified." I said I felt it could be used to eliminate minorities and women from broadcast employment consideration and that it could thus become "an escape hatch."

"Unfortunately, women and minorities are often told that they are not 'qualified' to take a job or be promoted, but they are then told to instruct a non-minority or a male on the specifics of how to do the very job they were told they (minorities, women) could not do.

"In many instances, it seems that women or minorities cannot win for losing. They are either 'not qualified,' 'under-qualified' or 'overqualified.' Where does the 'buck' stop? Common sense dictates the answer. Employers know if a person can do the job, or be trained for the job. The question becomes, 'If the applicant were a white male, would I bring up the 'qualifications' issue?"

There are several other portions of the proposed rules and guidelines I am not happy with: I wanted goals and timetables established for all stations; the Commission is wavering between exempting those stations with 10 or those with 15 employees.

I favor a "self analysis" approach (Executive Order 11246) for two reasons, as opposed to the "Title 7" approach the Commission finally adopted.

I also would have preferred requirements that stations with 25 employees instead of 50, list all job titles by race and sex, and that there be requirements that the FCC act on all complaints instead of referring them to other agencies.

Oh, well, you can't win 'em all. And as this present package stands barring any later revisions for the worse, I think minorities and women can live with it.

BELIEVE AMERICA WILL GO BROKE TRYING TO BE DECENT?

To Be Equal

Death penalty decision due

BY VERNON E. JORDAN JR.
Executive Director
National Urban League

The Supreme Court has put off till the Fall term a decision on an important case that may decide the fate of the death penalty in the United States, and with it, life or death for almost 300 people now on Death Row.

If that has a familiar ring to it, it's because the death penalty has already come before the Court. Back in 1972, in a narrow 5-4 decision, it ruled the death penalty unconstitutional because it had been imposed in an arbitrary way. Some people convicted of capital offenses got jail terms, others, predominantly black, minority and poor, were executed.

So extreme a punishment, the Court said in effect, has to be imposed fairly or not at all. It could not accept a situation where a wealthy or white defendant with access to a good lawyer and with the ability to influence a judge and a jury could get a prison sentence while the poor and the black, often poorly represented and subject to discriminatory attitudes by predominantly middle class judges and juries, were killed by the state.

That decision avoided the ultimate step of barring the death penalty as a constitutionally prohibited "cruel and unusual punishment," but it seemed to do the job at the time. Those of us who were repelled by the institutionalization of official murder that went under the name of "the death penalty" thought the days of that cruel practice were ended.

But we didn't count on the very real urge to punish and to kill still prevalent in our country. No sooner was the ink dried on the Court's decree than dozens of states passed new death penalty laws that seemed to get around the objections of the Justices.

In North Carolina, where 72 people face death by the state, the state Supreme Court's ruling simply meant that since North Carolina's death sentence had been imposed by judges at their discretion, the state would now have to make death mandatory. That way the constitutional niceties would be observed. The mandatory death sentence became popular with state legislatures trying to get around the Court's decision.

So, as a result of the Supreme Court's attempt to limit the use of the death penalty, we have a situation where bloodthirsty legislatures are prepared to execute more people than before.

It's always good for a headline or a round of applause for someone to make the standard anti-crime speech and conclude with a plea for restoration of the death penalty. But lawyers know that a mandatory death sentence only means prosecutors will be reluctant to press maximum charges, reducing first degree murder charges to manslaughter, for example. And juries will be less willing to convict if they know they are also voting to kill another human being.

The net result is bound to be lighter sentences for some and death for others -- the same situation the Court said was unconstitutional back in 1972. As a deterrent, the penalty is useless and may actually encourage murders as some psychiatrists have noted in cases where mentally unstable persons murder in the hopes of being killed by the state, in effect, suicide.

The finality of the death penalty precludes rehabilitation or even reversal of the convictions of innocent people. If the aim of the penalty is to remove dangerous persons from our society, that's what prisons are for. States have banned the death penalty don't have higher murder rates than states that still have it, or have re-enacted it.

The arguments against the death penalty are many and powerful, but in the end, it is a cruel and unusual punishment, a practice that bloodies the hands of the state and all its citizens, an official sanction for the worst crime of all, taking the life of another human being.

I would hope that the Court takes the opportunity to put a final, total and irrevocable end to this barbarous practice that is unworthy of a civilized nation or of a people that still aspire to hold humane values.

If only the possibilities were ours to look at during the years to come up until the next 200! We'd probably see people like our race now, far beyond our total imagination. People of that time will probably be more content than we are now even existing in a world of corruptness. But until that time "We As A Dying Race" talks about "The Next Two Hundred Years."

Now! From our past two hundred years.

We, the people, of our dying race, can recall from history of our past 200 years of so many set-backs, changes and disappointments of our people from slavery to the highly educated individuals of our race, now! Slavery, for one thing, has taken our people from the bondage of being the property of another human being, to hatred from my people. How can we, the people, dislike something that we know little about. Were we there to notice everything that happen to our people, of the past? Were we there to share their pain? Were we? No! So then, how can we hate those times?

Remember, my people of the race, that slavery, more or less, was hard on our people, but it made them strong in their beliefs as people not as animals. It made them more aware of freedom, and the sweetness of getting that freedom. They worked hard to obtain something we miss now. Something that words couldn't explain, but something within their souls. Understand my people of today's world, they were twice as strong as we, the educated ones. With all the formulae of making our minds so complex, my people of the race, can you understand that at the present time we think that we're having such a rough time existing with each other, but what we don't know is that these people of ours, 200 years ago in slavery, suffered more than we, the educated ones.

If we live on hundred years, we will never suffer even a fourth of what they suffered. You nor I will ever suffer as much as they did in slavery! Never! We don't have the will power to want something as much as our lives. "Cause our people in slavery wanted more than their lives to be free, to do for themselves, to think for themselves, and to even walk around, not as people taking up space, but as people with meanings to their lives. A meaning that can probably be within us, even now, as people of the race. "Cause to me, slavery was the stepping stone of our race.

As the years past, our people, experience from slavery, advanced themselves in our world, in the sense of being talented. People such as poets of lovely poems; words arrange with such form and meaning that the power turn the whole world around with the reality and the dreams that even our people today read, so often. Composers of music, like any other individuals of such talents, even writers of such music, individuals of our race, in the past have written wonderful and famous songs to inspire the people of my race. Also, slavery helped encouraged the advancement of our people, in the sense of inventors-people of our race who became inventors aided in the modernization of our world. Inventing those things most needed in today's life. We, the people, can also be thankful in what our people in the past has done in the world of business, putting their foot prints in the milestones of business, next to their counterpart who once control them under slavery.

One thing I must say, our race has progressed from times of slavery more than the world itself has progressed. Even today we have individuals of our race with position, even in politics near to the President himself. Politicians of our race so powerful that if their minds were to fall them, they could probably think of controlling everyone under them. Another position we the people have obtained is that of doctors and lawyers. Powerful as they seem, they can be harmful to our race if such individuals with these positions forget what they have accomplished; let not their greed destroy themselves. "Cause what can destroy them, will just as well, destroy the remaining people of the race. Even in the world of finance, our people have just as much control as their counterparts, like for instance, bankers of so many big banks throughout the world even with positions as high as president and vice-president.

Dear Andrew: By Robert DeFrantz

Welch says he's aware of problems blacks face

Dear Andrew,

Well I finally got to sit down with Mr. Welch the other day. Over an hour was spent with him conversing about the problems that concern the economically deprived. After putting the problems to him, I sat back and waited for some answers concerning the problem of adequate transportation for center city people to get to areas where possible jobs were. He answered he knew this was a must. However, he was not convinced that subsidies were the complete answer. He felt that already established lines could and should maintain themselves but new lines should be subsidized until such time as they were tested for riders desirability.

In the matter of housing he pointed out that this was an area where he has the most experience and knowledge. He concluded his thought on this issue saying, "If I am elected mayor, you can be assured that there would be no empty buildings such as the completed senior citizen one nor would there be boarded up unused apartment buildings especially since there is a need for housing." When pressed how he would do this, he suggested involving the financial institutions in commitments to helping provide low interest rates for specific properties.

The discussion then turned to citizen participation. He states he feels strongly about this area. Citizens of areas have an understanding that politicians may or may not have, but he would be seeking ways for meaningful involvement in the decision making process. As an example, he pointed out that knowing the legal responsibility of the city council, he would personally make sure the citizens' requests were honored.

The next item discussed was the manpower (including women and youth) problems of the Black citizens and the economically deprived. He felt he was not as comfortable with his knowledge in this area but had asked for his aides to get all data available so he could study and make recommendations. He felt there ought to be more meaningful programs for the upgrading of skills for the unemployed and under-employed and he would be presenting a program shortly.

The last area discussed was police community relations. How did he feel about a citizens' review board. He pointed out that he knew this was an emotional problem in many center city areas, however, he felt that he was not ready at this moment to commit himself to civilian review. He has not ruled it out. He did point out that his police chief would be his police chief and would be expected to carry out the mayor's policies. I asked him about the rumor concerning (if he were elected) the "Avenue" being allowed to run wide open. He replied that there was absolutely no truth to that, he would expect his police chief to enforce the law so that the Black citizens would understand that there was a "fair and even enforcement of the law."

The other concern I had was that people were not seeing him in the communities. It was alright to tell me these things but why not tell the Black citizens at their meetings. I hoped he did not feel he did not need the Black citizens as voters so he did not want to identify with them or their causes. He assured me that his was not so that after September 2nd, he would be very active and visible in all segments of the community. He wanted to be mayor so he would be everywhere seeking votes.

Well, we will see. And, as with all politicians, tell it to the people, only just make sure you are for REAL. Sincerely, BOB P.S. School Board Elections May 1976.

Free hospital and medical care for all

We need free hospital and medical care for everyone through a system of government health insurance.

We should have the best health care in the world because we spend more money on medical research than any other country. Probably we have the best medical and hospital care for those comparatively few who can pay for it. But too often it is not available to those who need it.

An important reason for this failure to deliver the best health care for everyone is the cost to the individual person who becomes sick or injured in a non-industrial accident. Industrial accidents are already covered by workmen's compensation. The cost of medical and hospital care has risen in the last few years higher and faster than other components in the increasing costs of living.

Good health care should be the right of any inhabitant of our country, just as the chance to get an education is a right. Yet they do not have such care as a right, and the care they do get is not as good as it should be.

There are two proofs of that last statement.

The best test of good health care is infant mortality. If we had the best medical care of any country, we would have the lowest infant mortality. We don't. We are 17th from the lowest, and every country with lower infant mortality than ours has some form of other government health insurance. This is a fact which we cannot ignore. We must face it. To ignore it, as do the opponents of government health insurance, can only be done at the expense of the nation's health.

The second proof is that Negroes have a substantially higher rate of infant mortality and a lower rate of longevity by 10 or 11 percent than do whites. This is clearly due to the lack of proper delivery of health care to those who need it. For Negroes are basically as healthy and hardy as whites if not more so. If you doubt that, you have only to look at the figures for the Olympic games.

In the 1964 Olympics, one college, Tennessee A&M in Nashville, with 15,000 Negro students, had 7 gold medalists. No other college had more than one gold medalist except the University of Carolina, which has some 90,000 students, over 90 percent of them whites; and it had two gold medalists. When 15,000 Negro students turned out 7 gold medalists and nearly 90,000 white students won 2 gold medals, no one can say that Negroes are not healthy and hardy. They are. If they don't live quite so long and they don't have a higher infant mortality rate than whites, which they do-it is because of the harder economic conditions under which on an average they have to live, and part of this have to live, and part of these harder economic conditions is poorer medical care.

The 1968 Olympics told the same story. The proportion of Negro to white gold medal winners on the American team was higher than their proportion to the general population.

It has been argued that we should maintain our present medical system, which is mainly on a fee for service basis, because we have made progress in increasing health and longevity. That is true. We have made such progress. The countries, however, which have government health insurance have also made such progress and at a greater rate than we. We are now 17th from the lowest in infant mortality. Fifteen years ago we were 8th from the lowest. While we have made progress in reducing infant mortality and increasing longevity, the countries with government health insurance have made greater progress.

ARGUMENT ABOUT COST The big argument used by the opponents of having free hospital and medical care for everyone is the cost. The argument is fallacious. There is absolutely nothing in government health insurance that will increase the total social cost of health care, though it will add to the federal budget. The inhabitants of our country already bear in full the cost of illness and on-industrial accident. If a man becomes ill or injured in a non-industrial accident, the cost is borne by him if he can afford it. His using this freedom from our past people, of the race, who've worked hard to obtain. Oh, my people, of the race, with all the talent that we have among us all and the many important position, we the people, have worked hard. Will we let go to waste? NO! My race we must put strength within our ranks, for those people in the next 200 years, to look back in their history books and be proud of our accomplishments. "Cause if we, the people, fail ourselves, then what kind of backbone will be within our race in the next 200 years. Weak or strong, it's up to us, now, to give such an answer for them.

I (being as proud as I am of the accomplishments of our past people of the race) will never be ashamed of my race, as long as we continue our accomplishments which we have worked hard to obtain, and not to let our sometimes stupid ways, take away our dreams that are reality, destroy my race. "Cause crasse actions of my people, of the race, will surely harm the race of people in the next 200 years. So, let us not forget that our race must exist as a united race, today and for years to come. Understand me, my people, kill our race that we shouldn't, but make it strong and powerful as a united race for the next 200 years. Let us not fail! Not fail! ---We As A Race!!!!

(Next story in "We As A Dying Race" on "Realism of Our Business World")

family pays part of the cost for he may have to draw on his savings for his old age or for the higher education of his children. His employer, suffers the loss of his productivity labor. Some of the financial cost may be borne by an insurance company, which means in the long run by the premiums of the policy holders. If his is indigent, or the illness forces him to become so, the state and local taxpayers, who pay for public welfare relief, carry the load. The cost is there. Someone in the community pays welfare relief, carry the load. The cost is there. Someone in the community pays it. All that health insurance does is to distribute the cost around in a more just and equitable manner.

Part of the trouble with health care is that the availability of it is very unevenly distributed. If you live in a poor community the chances are that there is not good medical care readily available even if you can afford it. Most physicians, like others, want to live and practice where the money is. So poor communities have far fewer doctors in proportion to the population than richer ones.

If you are unfortunate enough to be on relief, the situation is worse. Most relief costs are paid for by local taxes, mainly real estate taxes, with some subsidies from the State governments. This means, if relief is to be adequate, that the poor would have to be taxed heavily to support the destitute living among the poor, of whom there are many; while wealthier persons living in richer communities are taxed only lightly to support the destitute living among the rich, of whom there are few. This is clearly unjust. Also, it intensifies the maldistribution of medical care because the poorer localities simply cannot pay the taxes to provide adequate relief including medical care for those who need it and cannot pay for it.

Government health insurance would transfer the cost of sickness and non-industrial accidents for persons on relief from the state and local tax payers who now pay most of the cost of general public welfare relief to the federal government. This would be a gain in social justice. For the states raise most of their money by sales taxes. Sales taxes bear much more heavily in proportion on the poor than on the rich. Nearly every penny spent by a poor person is hit with a sales tax. But many expenditures typical of a rich family totally escape a state sales tax, such as expenditures for domestic service, for trips abroad, or for investments. The local government bodies raise most of their money by taxes on real estate. This hits small homeowners. It also hits all tenants, because the landlords add the cost of the taxes to the rents. Taxes on real estate are not an accurate reflection of wealth, and therefore of ability to pay. For most of the wealth of rich people is held in the form of stocks and bonds, which are intangible personal property, and which the taxes relied on by local governments hardly ever reach. The Federal Government on the other hand raises most of its one from the graduated personal income tax and the corporation profits tax. Despite loopholes favoring the rich in the graduated personal property tax, the federal government's tax system is, roughly, taxation in proportion to ability to pay. Actually, we can cover the entire cost by eliminating the loopholes favoring the rich in the present federal tax structure.

GOVERNMENT HEALTH INSURANCE WOULD REDUCE THE COST OF HEALTH CARE.

Where is the justice?

To the Editor:

I have just returned from a trial in Court Room No. 9 at the City-County Building. On Saturday morning, August 23rd, five young Negro boys were handcuffed and arrested on the charges of disorderly conduct. These boys had never had any previous trouble with the law in any way.

The two boys that were eighteen (18) years old were taken to jail, and the other three under 18 were taken to the Juvenile Department. It seems that while waiting on the corner of Market and Illinois Street along with other people to cross the street, someone in the crowd said, "Oink, Oink", and the policeman took all five boys out of the crowd and handcuffed them, and arrested them.

The two older boys after being finger-printed and cursed at the jail, were released on their own cognizance, while the three juveniles' parents were notified and had to come down to get them. None of them even knew why they were there.

At the trial of the older boys this morning, one of the boys admitted to saying, "Oink, Oink". The rest of the boys including the other eighteen (18) yr. old maintained that they did not even hear him say it.

The one that admitted saying it was put on probation for six months and fined $75.00 to be paid during this six month period. The arresting officer recommended that the other one be dismissed and the charges be taken off of his record, because he had not said or done anything. The juveniles involved have to report for their hearing on Thursday, August 28th at 11 a.m.

I asked the judge if the officer, obviously knew which one had as he put it, "harrassed him", what the reason was for handcuffing and arresting all five of them? He replied that, "he did not know."

I am the mother of one of the juveniles, and I feel that the innocent boys were unnecessarily harrassed, embarrassed, and that their rights were abused by having been treated in this manner simply because they happened to be present. Not to mention the anxiety and inconvenience caused their parents. I certainly believe that they should obey and respect the law and the people that enforce it, but I also feel disgust for a system that can infringe upon the rights of any citizen, young or old just because they have the authority to get away with it. 'Ali The Man/Ali The Fighter' feature at Circle, Sherman II

With the music of Simon Stokes being performed by Richie Havens, Rick Baxter, director of "ALI THE MAN," looks at the life of Muhammad Ali out of the ring and away from the press.

"ALI THE MAN/Ali THE FIGHTER" is currently showing at the CIRCLE THEATER downtown and the SHERMAN II drive-in. Anyone who digs Muhammad Ali (as well as those who don't) can't afford to miss this one.

Ali's training habits can be compared to a Las Vegas glitter show. At any one time there are numerous women, of all ages and races hanging around the gyms and training camps where Ali frequents to get a glimpse of the champ.

Away from the physical training Ali trains mentally and emotionally with the children of Alah. Wherever he can Muhammad Ali teaches and in teaching learns. He tells his following to be proud of their heritage and have respect for themselves as well as their brothers and sisters.

What does being black mean to a man such as Muhammad Ali or what does Muhammad Ali mean to being black.

Looking at Ali the Fighter we take a look at the preparation that went into the most profitable and most well promoted fight of all time.

Physical training may make the fighter but does not necessarily make the fight.

Burt Lancaster does the commentary of the Ali/Frazier I fight and finds preparing and studying for this fight encompasses more people than a motion picture production.

Throughout the training process Ali never loses his quick wit and noted sense of humor. He constantly toys with his adversary, in this case Frazier, and inso doing puts on quite a show.

When the moment of truth has arrived and in the ring Ali is face to face with Frazier the show does not stop it starts.

The crowd alone is enough to keep an audience entertained. Anyone who is anyone is where the action is and the 15 round bout between Ali and Frazier had enough action and suspense to make a full length feature film out of.

Frazier takes the win along with most of the blows. William Greaves, the director and producer of ALI THE FIGHTER, leaves it up to us to decide whether Frazier beat Ali or Ali beat himself.

In conclusion a summation of the career of Muhammad Ali subsequent to the Ali/Frazier I Fight may not prove anything about the defeat to Frazier but, it certainly shows Ali's driving desire to regain his three lost years. This is revealed in a montage of winning battles fought in the ring with such boxers as Forman and Frazier.

AT CIRCLE: In one of the most exciting fights of all times, Muhammad Ali reclaims his heavyweight crown from George Forman as shown in a new feature film, "ALI THE MAN/Ali THE FIGHTER." For the first time a motion picture showing the preparation and build-up of a man and the fights he made famous. "ALI THE MAN/Ali THE FIGHTER" is brought to you by Cin America Releases, Inc.

HERE'S HOW IT'S DONE: Archie Moore demonstrates for Burt Lancaster the speed at which a jab should be thrown in a scene from a new motion picture, "ALI THE MAN/Ali THE FIGHTER." The film is a two-part package depicting the life of Muhammad Ali.

'The Exorcist' now showing at Uptown

'THE EXORCIST' AT UPTOWN: The popular Uptown Theater, College at 42nd, is presently showing the dramatic thriller, "THE EXORCIST." Here, Linda Blair as Regan is disturbed by an unknown force and Ellen Burstyn as her mother tries to calm her down in this scene from William Blatty's thriller.

For those of you who missed last year's shocker, and for those of you who want to see it again, here's your big chance. "THE EXORCIST," the story of a girl possessed by demons, is now showing at the Uptown Theater, College and 42nd.

While he was attending Washington's Georgetown University in 1949, William Peter Blatty read about the reported exorcism of a 14-year-old boy in nearby Mt. Rainier, Maryland. The entire subject of diabolical possession came to fascinate Blatty, and two decades later he wrote a novel on the subject that proved equally fascinating to millions of readers. Since its publication in 1971, "The Exorcist" has sold over 6,000,000 copies in the United States alone, and has been translated into 18 languages and has reawakened world-wide interest in the whole spectrum of supernatural phenomena.

The Maryland case on which Blatty modeled his tale about a possessed young girl was by no means the only such incident in recent times. Exorcistic ceremonies remain a bastion of certain Eastern cultures, several Western exorcisms in this century have been extensively documented and countless others have undoubtedly been performed in the secrecy still enshrouding this ancient practice.

Ours is a skeptical age, and a host of physiological and psychological explanations have recently of "diabolical possession." Psychosurgery, arteriography and newly discovered drugs are all scientific alternatives to the ritual of exorcism. Yet no discover has enabled us to understand the fundamental nature of evil and its irrational, violent, persistent infestation of man throughout history.

By charting the specific symptoms of a young girl presumed "possessed" and detailing the methods by which the demon was exorcised from her, Blatty hoped to frame the unending battle between good and evil in a dramatically compelling and philosophically provocative narrative. Director William Friedkin's film version of "The Exorcist" has the same goal; to look realistically at the inexplicable events during a thoroughly documented, bizarre outbreak of evil in one contemporary American home.

H. Dean Wilsted named to Alliance of Businessmen post

H. Dean Wilsted has been appointed Manager of Job Procurement and Placement of the Indianapolis Metro of the National Alliance of Businessmen. He is on loan from the Detroit Diesel Allison Division of General Motors where he has served primarily as a Manager of Research Programs aimed at the improvement of gas-turbine aircraft engines.

In the position of Manager of Job Procurement and Placement, Wilsted (1) plans, coordinates and directs pledge campaigns to solicit private sector job pledges, (2) coordinates the Disadvantaged Program, (3) serves as the NAB marketing arm, (4) follows-up with pledging companies to stimulate pledges into jobs and (5) directs the activity of account executives in making personal calls on NAB employers for explaining enrollment of new employers, reporting procedures and in promoting goodwill and an understanding of the NAB program.

James D. Calhoun was recently appointed Youth Director of the National Alliance of Businessmen by Richard A. Steele, vice-chairman of the Alliance and President of Citizens Gas and Coke Utility. Calhoun's responsibilities at NAB will involve working with the business community and the school system to help needy youth find employment. Calhoun is on loan to NAB from Citizens Gas where he is Market Research Manager. He is a graduate of Butler University and Indiana University.

The National Alliance of Businessmen is a partnership of business, labor and government organized in 1968 to secure jobs and job training for America's disadvantaged people, Vietnam-era veterans, needy youth and ex-offenders; staffed by executives from business, labor and government organizations. It is headquartered in Washington, D.C. and operates offices throughout the country. The major vehicle of the Alliance is the Job Opportunities in the Business Sector (JOBS) program.

Evansville News

By CLEONA SCOTT

EVANSVILLE -- The Senior Mission of Nazareth Baptist Church, 867 E. Walnut St., are celebrating their Annual Day Sunday September 14, at 2 p.m. The Rev. Herman Williams will be the principal speaker. The public is invited. Mrs. Letha Nunn is the president. Rev. Justin D. Marks is pastor.

Anthony Brooks, principal at Harper School and former principal at Lincoln School, was named assistant to Ira Neal, the supervisor of the Title VII, the federal program for aiding integration of the schools. The move was questioned by the ETA and members of the Title VII advisory committee. James Kerney, former administrator in personnel and communications, who planned to return to teaching, was named principal at Harper School, replacing Brooks. Named assistants to high school principals: Mrs. Carol Koehler, a Reitz counselor, to North and Reitz; and Edward P. Claybourne, a Central counselor, to Bosse and Harrison. Other assistants were named to the principals in an effort to meet state requirements for an assistant principal for each 500 pupils. The board did not vote on the matters after some objections, but held that it was a matter of the school administration carrying out requests made by the board earlier.

William Thomas Ervin, formerly of Evansville, chose a Harriman, Tenn. woman, Miss Christine Hill, as his bride. The couple were wed recently in Knoxville, Tenn. The former Miss Hill is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Hill, also of Harriman. Irvin is the son of Mrs. Joe T. Irvin of 634 E. Maryland, and the late Mr. Irvin.

The bride is a senior at the University of Tenn. in Knoxville. The bridegroom, a North High graduate, received a B.A. degree from Knoxville College this year and is on the editorial staff of the Public Community Bulletin there. The couple will be in Evansville over the weekend and will be honored with a reception in his mother's home. They will reside in Knoxville.

Indiana State University began classes with 2680 students, its largest enrollment. With 2680 enrolled, 747 are new students. A part of the increase is also due to more students remaining to complete work toward degrees. According to officials more students are aware of the expanded programs in the junior and senior levels. The new engineering and technology program, opening for the first time this fall, drew 72 freshmen.

Services for Mrs. Ruby Hines 63, of 260 E. Mulberry, were held the past Saturday at Nazareth Baptist Church, 867 E. Walnut where she was a member. Rev. J.D. Marks Jr., officiated. Burial was in Oak Hill Cemetery, with Gaines Funeral Home in charge.

Dr. L.A. McIntyre, 521 Mulberry, was admitted to the hospital recently but has been released and is now recuperating at home. He received many tokens of love while being hospitalized. He reports feeling much better and glad to be home.

Notre Dame Black Studies head named fellow by education council

The selection of Dr. Joseph W. Scott, associate professor of sociology and anthropology and director of the Black Studies Program at the University of Notre Dame, as a Fellow in Academic Administration has been announced by officials of the American Council on Education in Washington, D.C. Scott will serve a host internship with Provost Raymond W. Mack of Northwestern University during the 1975-76 academic year.

Nominated by Rev. Theodore m. hesburgh, C.S.C., Notre Dame president, Scott is one of 40 faculty members or administrators selected from more than 120 applicants for the prestigious internship award. Candidates must have three years of college teaching experience and exhibit a record of accomplishment indicative of substantial career potential for academic administration. The program is underwritten by a grant from the Lilly Endowment, Inc.

A member of the Notre Dame faculty since 1970, Scott has been a Fulbright lecturer in Argentina twice and Rockefeller Visiting Professor of Sociology at the University of Ibadan, Nigeria. He has also held teaching positions at American University of Fort Benning, Ga., University of Kentucky, University of Loral, Michigan State University, University of Buenos Aires and University of Toledo.

The native of Hamtramck, Mich., received cum laude honors at Central Michigan University where he was a varsity football player and was selected as outstanding student senator and distinguished military graduate. He was a member of the debate team, oratory team, interpretative reading team and served as president of Tau Alpha Upsilon and vice president of Pi Kappa Delta and Kappa Delta Pi fraternities.

His doctoral degree in sociology and anthropology was awarded in 1963 at Indiana University after receipt of a master's degree in the same study area in 1959. His graduate education was partially financed by merit John Hay Whitney and National Institute of Health fellowships.

Scott is the author of 18 articles in scholarly publications, two published book reviews, and a book, "The Black Revolt and the Politics of Racial Stratification," scheduled to be published next spring. He has been a visiting lecturer at Toledo, Cornell, Howard, Nebraska, Bowling Green, Central Michigan, Wayne State, Western Michigan and Southwestern Minnesota State Universities.

The Notre Dame professor has also served as human relations trainer for the Indiana State Department of Public Instruction in South Bend, as principal investigator for Model Cities Housing Project Evaluation, Crime and Delinquency Project in Toledo, Ohio, and Kentucky Training Project, and as a consultant for other community programs.

At Notre Dame he has served as chairman of the Black Student Affairs Committee, of the 1974-75 Summer Session program of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology, as a member of the admissions committee and the committee on appointments and promotions of his department, and as a member of the advisory committee for the Notre Dame Center for Civil Rights.

He is a member of the Association of Social and Behavioral Scientists, African Heritage Study Society, American Sociological Association where he is section chairman of the professional ethics committee, and council member of North Central Sociological Society.

Contraceptive given by injection tested

WASHINGTON -- The National Institute of Health announced Saturday it is testing what it described as a long-lasting injectable contraceptive.

A spokesman said the West German firm of Schering AG is doing the research on a $1.2 million contract from the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development. The contract provides for the testing of norethindrone enanthate, which has demonstrated BUSY SCHEDULE: Mrs. Inez Kaiser, a member of the Kansas City, Missouri, Alumnae Chapter and National Treasurer of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, is a member of the Department of Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Service. She attended the Spring meeting of DACOWITS in Washington, D.C., and served as a member of the legislative committee. During the meeting she shared her viewpoints on how the committee could better function with Vice-Admiral John G. Finneran, Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Military Personnel Policy and Rear-Admiral Chick Rauch, Jr. U.S.N. Assistant Chief of Naval Personnel for Human Goals. Recently she addressed the personnel of the Richards-Gebaur AFB in Kansas City, Missouri. DACOWITS Kaiser also was a speaker at the meeting of the National Navy Officers Association in Dallas, Texas, and delivered the main address at the Marine Corps Women's Equality Day dinner. The Kansas City business woman also recently visited the Navy Support Unit in Seattle, Washington.

Black woman works to improve plight of female offenders

WASHINGTON -- Euphensia Foster, coordinator of the U. S. Labor Department's program for female offenders, knows the problems facing the women she's trying to help. A former elementary school teacher and the mother of three daughters, Ms. Foster has herself served time in prison.

Ms. Foster, who is "on loan" to the Labor Department from the Department of Justice during International Women's Year, is working to improve the situation of women in prison and other places of detention. She is the first female ex-offender to be hired by the Justice Department in a professional capacity.

Ms. Foster believes that people need to be educated to the problems of women offenders, and as part of her job she is giving national visibility to these problems by participating in conferences on women offenders and by appearing before women's groups, community and minority organizations, and groups interested in criminal justice.

Noting that the majority of women offenders are members of minority groups, mothers with dependent children, or heads of households—all with few or no job skills — Ms. Foster says that their problems are not much different from those facing most women.

"But because they are ex-offenders and their options have been limited, since penal institutions provide little or no job training, female offenders carry that extra burden of unemployment," she adds.

"I was 38 years old when I was convicted of fraud," says Ms. Foster. She also held a college degree as well as having had work experience holding a variety of positions—including elementary school teacher, claims developer, collection agent and purchasing agent.

But after spending six months in prison and earning the designation "ex-offender," Ms. Foster—during what she describes as a "consciousness-raising experience"—says that she encountered a variety of "obstacles, barriers and attitudes" that hinder a smooth transition from prison into public life, especially in the working world.

"I began to realize the difficulties that women who are less educated might have," she says.

Maintaining that jobs and job training represent one of the most critical needs facing women offenders, Ms. Foster is working with the Labor Department's Bureau to encourage more people to become involved in providing more services to women offenders in their cities.

These services are geared to meet the employability needs of women offenders from the time of their arrest through a suitable period following their release.

Ms. Foster believes the majority of crimes are committed by women for economic reasons, since many women who are not able to find adequate paying jobs are also mothers with dependent children.

"Most of these are not violent crimes," she notes. "These crimes are only committed as a means of survival."

She adds, "And when a woman is taken away from her home and children, locked up, and denied opportunities such as adequate academic and vocational training for employment, a cycle of crime is started."

Ms. Foster believes that the emphasis should be on alternatives to prison that will enable more women to make valuable contributions to their communities.

"Women should be provided with interesting and good-paying job opportunities," she says.

Ms. Foster notes that as a part of the Labor Department's International Women's Year activities, the Women's Bureau is focusing on non-traditional jobs for women.

"This is not to say that all women want to be draftsmen or construction workers; many women like homemaking and taking care of children," Ms. Foster says.

"The idea is to present options that will permit women to make more and better choices about their futures."

MUNCIE -- Dr. I. Paul Broaduss, minister of the Antioch Missionary Baptist Church here, was honored by his congregation for 32 years of faithful service to God and to his church. The special service was held Sunday, Aug. 24, at the church.

The guest speaker for this special event was the Rev. James Hill, minister of the Mt. Zion Baptist Church of this city.

Dr. Broaduss was called to pastor this church at the age of 25. A faithful, dependable minister, he is respected by the masses of people who know him all over the country where he has preached in many revivals. He has preached over 2,000 sermons and have had some 1,000 converts.

He is a member of the National Baptist Convention of America, a member for 50 years of the Northeastern District Association, a member of the Indiana Baptist State Convention, and is second vice-president of the convention. He has served as the Dean of Religious Education for the Northeastern District Convention.

Several Young men have come up under him and are now preaching the gospel all over the land. Among them are the Rev. E. Plakes of Detroit, Mich. He holds a bachelor of Theology Degree and Doctor of Divinity. He is a member of the Human rights Commission of Delaware County. Other positions served include past president of the NAACP, past member of ACTION, INC.

The King Solomon Baptist Church of Nashville worshipped with the Virginia Street Baptist Church Sunday afternoon in an annual Deaconesses services. The sermon was delivered by Rev. George Babb, pastor of the Nashville Church, and the visiting singers furnished the music. Mrs. Sara Howard is president; Rev. A.R. Lagley was host pastor.

The award of "General Practitioner of the Year" has been given Dr. P.C. Brooks, operator of the Brooks Memorial Hospital. This recognition was received at the annual meet of the National Medical Association held in Miami, Fla. Following the meet Dr. Brooks, accompanied by his family, enjoyed a vacation cruise.

Mrs. Annie L. Stirplin is spending her vacation with son Sgt. Paul Edwards and family, at Kelly AFB, San Antonio, Texas. Before returning to the city she will also visit another son, Lt. Col. Lloyd Edwards and family, Mater AFB, Sacramento, Calif.

Mrs. Willie M. Faulkner Johnson has returned to the city after visiting with her daughters, Mrs. Fannie Lee Thomas, Mrs. Mary Joe Bowles and their families of Greenville, N.C. Mrs. Hazel Brewer and children also made the trip with Mrs. Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Lewis and daughter, Mrs. Bennie Russell and children of Trenton, was among the many persons attending the Lewis family reunion held in Indianapolis recently. They also visited a number of relatives and friends during the stay in Indiana.

Nigeri a swears in new rulers

LAGOS, Nigeria --(NBNS)-- Nigeria's new ruling body--the Supreme Military Council--has been sworn in, and Brig. Murtala Fufu Mohammed, the new head of state and the leader of the coup which seized power here last month, has made it clear that the council "has an urgent task before it" and would have to "get down to business at once."

During the swearing in ceremony, Brig. Mohammed restated a theme adopted by the new leaders that "by the timely intervention of the armed forces, the people of Nigeria have another opportunity to start again the task of rebuilding the nation."

But the 38-year-old Mohammed said nothing about an eventual return to civilian rule. The person he ousted, Gen. Yakubu Gowon, had resigned on a promise to grant civilian rule in 1976. Gowon had told the nation that it was not yet ready for civilian rule because there was still too much corruption in the civilian ranks of the government.

Brig. Mohammed also failed to mention whether or not he would name new federal commissioners and persons to key civilian posts to replace those who received walking papers when the new regime took over.

What is certain here, though, is the fact that there are a number of "uncertainties," and the citizens again, are the pawns in the chess game.

The new Supreme Military Council is made up mostly of young army officers, -- brigadiers down to captains; also two police officials and three naval officers. Together, they total 22.

The Veterans Administration during fiscal year 1976 plans to spend a record $3.9 billion on its hospital and medical care program.

Tuning in on ANDERSON

By REV. RAY WRIGHT

ANDERSON -- Mazine Ricard, owner, and Mary Milkous, co-worker, of the Silhouette Beauty Salon, 2237 Arrow Ave., Anderson, Indiana have a slogan fitting their quality, "The ship ultimate in service." They specialize in tinting, bleaching, permanents, scalp treatments, wigs, and wigs. They're open to serve the public 7 a.m. - 7 p.m., Tuesday - Saturdays. Appointments can be made by calling 644-9850.

Willie Carter, a very active black citizen in Anderson, also an announcer of radio program called "Youth in Action", came into Wright's Variety Corner on Friday, August 29, and put his program in action. He interviewed several young people concerning the neighborhood store. He asked what they had learned involving buying. He got a very big response from the children in the area. - Schuelda Burgess

People who need People

Black volunteers remember the aged

Older people have a wealth of human experience to share. Sharing that experience is essential to good morale and mental health. No one can force us to laugh with others, to play with others, to work with others, and to love others. We often have to make the first move ourselves; but if we do, life is brighter and richer and healthier.

THE ALPHA HOME ASSOCIATION, a United Way agency since 1926 has an awareness of the concerns, and operates on the philosophy that, "we do nothing for our residents, (who are both the marginal and low income elderly citizens of Marion County) that they can not do for themselves, however we do everything that is required of us with 'Tender Loving Care.'"

VOLUNTARY GROUPS AND INDIVIDUALS are encouraged to learn to socialize with the older residents... to entertain and provide entertainment, to give information, to hold discussion sessions and to plan programs.

WITHIN THE BLACK COMMUNITY are many people that are committed to helping their neighbors, the sick and the shut-in. Although some may identify themselves as volunteers, a greater number silently serve in what is commonly identified as "Doing My Christian Duty"... "Benevolent Works"... "Just giving a helping hand." Without fanfare or any effort to draw special attention to themselves, there are a steady stream of individuals and groups who render dedicated and vital services as volunteers at The Alpha Home for the Aged.

VOLUNTEER GROUPS include the PAL Club which sponsors regular monthly birthday parties... the Lutheran Council which comes once or twice each month to assist with writing letters and reading to patients.

tients... the Junior Auxiliary which gives manpower hours as well as money, and currently is raising funds to pay the salary of a regular Social Activities Director... the Chi Eta Phi Sorority, a nursing sorority shows movies each week.

OTHER GROUPS THAT VOLUNTEER on a regular basis are the (CWF) Christian Women's Fellowship of Second Christian Church, who once a month sponsor a special program; the Northwest Senior Citizens Group plays bingo with the patients once a month, and also a group known as the Game Day Leaders... The Alpha Home Guild sponsors an annual volunteer recognition event.

CHAPEL SERVICES are arranged by the Chaplaincy Committee where a group of ministers of the same denomination, separately conduct a series of services throughout an entire month. In this manner patients are insured that they will have exposure and involvement in their respective religious faiths. The Mount Zion Church comes each Sunday to help dress the patients for chapel services. The Gleasons Bible Class conducts regular bible study classes, and the Good Samaritan Baptist Church volunteers with monthly sing-alongs and religious services.

IT IS FELT that both the residents and the volunteers are benefited from their caring and concern about each other, and the community at large is kept alerted to the needs and problems of the residents of the facility.

You too can be involved in this worthy service, by contacting the Director, Mrs. America Murphy at 923-1518, or visiting the home located at 1910 North Senate, and offering your assistance... You'll be glad you did!

NEW ONCE - A - YEAR BIRTH CONTROL DEVICE: The first once-a-year birth control chemical, a hormone inside an IUD, or intra-uterine device has been tentatively approved by the Food and Drug Administration and will probably be marketed in the near future.

Shaped like a T and made of a porous, membrane-like plastic, the device contains a long-lasting supply of progesterone - a hormone naturally produced in the female ovaries - to be released bit by bit into the womb to prevent conception.

The Progestasert (the device's trade name) must be replaced once a year. It has been approved for effectiveness and safety, the FDA says, and needs only approval of labeling and packaging. Final review is expected to take place within two months.

The tentative FDA approval came after an advisory committee review of the results of tests in some 6,000 women in several countries, more than half of them in the United States. The device is being marketed this year in Britain, Canada, Mexico and West Germany, all of which have approved it.

POOR CHILDREN STILL IN NEED OF HEALTH CARE: More than seven years ago Congress passed legislation requiring states to set up, under Medicaid, a health screening and treatment program for poor children. Fewer than 3 million of the 13 million eligible have received this mandated health care, and the Federal Government has decided to try to prod the states.

Based on the screening already done, at least one quarter of the untreated children require dental care, more than one million need correction of eye problems and more than 300,000 need care for hearing defects.

The Department of Health Education and Welfare can withhold one percent of the Federal payments for Aid to Families with Dependent Children, a major category of welfare aid, if a state does not comply with the child-health regulations. Recently HEW used that power for the first time.

Most of the states notified were cited for failure to notify those eligible that the services were available and that parents could receive transportation and baby-sitting services if needed to take advantage of the program.

BREAST CANCER LOW IN AFRICA AND ASIA: Mortality from breast cancer has been increasing in many countries since 1920 and the disease is the leading cause of death of middle-aged women in western countries, according to a recent announcement by the World Health Organization.

Mortality, the organization explained, has been persistently high in northern and western Europe and North America, in-

Prepared by the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters, the national society of life insurance professionals who have earned the C.L.U. designation by meeting high educational, ethical and experience requirements.

QUESTION: Just how does life insurance stand up competitively with an investment in securities?

ANSWER: It depends on your needs and objectives. The objective in buying securities is to make a profit. The objective in buying life insurance is to protect your family or business from financial trouble if you die prematurely - or to provide money for retirement if you live.

Interestingly, at every major securities firm that is a member of the New York Stock Exchange, the sales representatives are as enthusiastic as insurance people in urging customers not to gamble with money that should be going into life insurance.

At the same time, skilled insurance agents unhesitatingly suggest that clients who have extra money - cash over and above what they need for rent, education, life insurance, savings and other normal expenses - should consider putting part of the extra funds into stocks, bonds or mutual funds.

To help feed refugees during one emergency period in Vietnam, Catholic Relief Services baked over 12,000 loaves of bread daily on a round-the-clock schedule.

Revenue sharing 'finances discrimination,' study shows

WASHINGTON--(NBNS)-- Four national organizations have charged that general revenue sharing -- that massive $30.2 billion federal program which provides assistance to some 39,000 state and local governments -- "is financing widespread discrimination in public employment and local service."

Created by the State and Local Fiscal Assistance Act of 1972, the law stipulates that no person in the United States, on the grounds of race, color, national origin or sex, be...subject to discrimination under any program or activity funded in whole or in part by the funds. In other words, that no Federally assisted jurisdiction could practice discrimination against any minority or against women.

But the organizations -- the National Urban Coalition, the League of Women Voters Education Fund, the Center for Community Change and the Center for National Policy Review -- concluded in a report that, there is ample cause to suspect extensive discrimination in the provision of basic government services, including police and fire protection, roads, sewers and education. Some 60 local and state governments were studied.

The study found that whites held 95 percent of fire protection jobs, Blacks held 3 percent, and Hispanic persons, 1.5 percent.

In police protection slots, whites dominated 90.7 percent of the positions. Blacks accounted for 6.3 percent, Hispanics 2.3 percent, and women 12 percent.

The report, "Equal Opportunity Under Revenue Sharing", using data compiled by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC), showed that, as of 1973, there were 3,115,315 whites employed by state and local governments, compared to 523,342 Blacks, and 124,597 Hispanics. Men accounted for 2,486,446 of the slots. The figures included eight job categories -- Officials/Administrators, Professionals, Protective Services, Technicians, Skilled Craft, Service/Maintenance, Office/Clerical and Paraprofessional. The field of Education was excluded.

Whites accounted for 7.3 percent of the Officials/Administrators; Blacks, 2.2 percent. Hispanics made up 2.7 percent. In the Professional category, Blacks lagged at 8.5 percent, Hispanics, 9.7 percent. Whites accounted for 16.9 percent.

Median salaries for full-time employees in the eight categories were $8,844 for whites, $7,361 for Blacks, and $7,49 for Hispanics. The median salary for women was $7,030, and for men, it was $9,603.

The study found that job discrimination was the largest single category of civil rights complaints filed with the Office of Revenue Sharing, and also found "serious defects" in ORS' enforcement practices. (ORS is

State-wide dental plan announced by Blue Cross Blue Shield

A new state-wide dental care insurance program designed for Hoosier businesses has been announced by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Indiana.

According to the announcement, the Blue Cross and Blue Shield Plans are the first Indiana-based companies to offer this "free-standing" dental coverage here in Indiana to businesses with as few as 10 full-time employees. It is not required that other health coverage be purchased.

In making the joint announcement, James C. Hrod, president of Blue Cross of Indiana, and Richard C. Kilborn, president of Blue Shield of Indiana, said, "Research shows there are thousands of Hoosiers with dental problems, and most are not seeking dental help because of the cost."

Studies show that dental disease is the most widespread health problem in the U.S. Over 12 percent of the population have lost all their natural teeth. Dental problems keep 47,000 workers home every day, causing the loss of 85,000,000 hours of work annually and millions of an arm of the Treasury Department and has discretionary power to withhold federal funds from jurisdictions charged with discrimination. It can only act if the courts uphold the discriminatory charges.)

One "defect" was that only five civil rights specialists are employed by ORS to monitor the 39,000 units of government.

dollars in business expense. Delay in treatment makes the problem worse, ultimately increasing the hardship and cost.

The new dental program, according to the announcement, will allow both small and large employers to tailor the coverage and cost to fit the needs of their business.

A key ingredient to this new dental coverage is preventive care including cleaning, examinations, x-rays, fluoride treatment, plus other services. Another benefit of the program is that, in order to maintain the patient-doctor relationship, the employee and his family are free to choose any licensed dentist.

Herod and Kilborn stated that dental coverage is achieving the recognition it deserves as a vital part of any good employee fringe benefit program. Today, in the U.S., nearly 22,000,000 persons have dental coverage, and by 1980 it is estimated that 80,000,000 will have it, including over 2-million in Indiana.

The proposal (regulations) represents the first Federal government effort to regulate the pricing and sales practices of the $2 billion-a-year funeral industry over the nation.

Nation's funeral homes under fire from FTCC

WASHINGTON, D.C.-- The nation's funeral industry representing like more than 22,000 funeral homes, last week end, was accused by the Federal Trade Commission of exploiting consumers through such tactics as overcharges and bodysnatching.

"... There are many serious abuses of consumers by large numbers of the nation's funeral homes and consequently an urgent need exists for remedial action by the commission (FTC),..." according to an FTC report based on a two-year investigation.

The FTC proposing to end such practices and cut funeral costs has proposed regulations that would outlaw restrictions on price advertising and require mortuaries to provide consumers with an itemized list of prices and services.

Subsequently, J. Thomas Rosch, director of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection observed, "We hope the impact (regulations) will be to introduce a good deal more price information, into the marketplace, which should stimulate competition, which in turn should lead to lower prices for the consumer."

The proposed rules (regulations) are open for public comment and will be subject of commission hearings early next year. However, Rosch stated, it will be at least a year before the regulations could take effect.

The president of the National Funeral Directors Ass'n., Edward J. Fitzgerald, Albuquerque, N.M., questioned the FTC's authority to impose the regulations.

Thomas Clark, attorney for the funeral directors' group stated that he does not believe funeral costs are too high. Rosch of the FTC staff said some exploitative practices, particularly overcharging and refusing to give price information by telephone are widespread."

The FTC described as a major abuse the practice of overcharging customers for such items as flowers, obituaries, pall bearers, cemetery and crematory services and clergy. The FTC staff estimated that "such overcharges average $20 per funeral and amount to about $40 million a year, in their entirety." The FTC estimated that the average cost of a funeral and burial is about $2,000.

The FTC has accepted a consent order requiring the nation's largest funeral service chain, Service Corporation International, to repay customers for the amount of overcharges for cremations arranged through 139 of its subsidiaries in 16 states and the District of Columbia in the last four and one-half years.
